

REPEAL OF THE MORTGAGE LAW

Governor Davidson Recommends It In His Opening Message To The Legislature Today.

PUTS LIMITATIONS ON FRANCHISES

Believes None Should Be Granted For More Than Twenty Years--Primary Law Discussed--New Commissions Are Suggested.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 10.—In his message to the legislature today Governor Davidson treated exhaustively many important subjects. In brief his recommendations were:

1.—For the repeal of the mortgage law. He shows that the act is evaded, that it is a practical failure in reaching mortgage holders and that it has had the effect of increasing interest rates.

2.—For a constitutional amendment permitting an income tax—"unsurpassed as a leveller of the public burden," he says.

3.—That the administration of the inheritance tax law be transferred from the secretary of state to the commission and that an attorney for the state be present at the administration of all states subject to the law.

4.—That street railways of all kinds be made subject to regulation by the state railroad commission.

5.—That overcapitalization be met by requiring that the issue of stocks and bonds shall be secured by a lien or mortgage upon the property or franchise of the transportation corporation.

6.—That a franchise granted without compensation to a local public service corporation shall not enter into the capitalization of such corporation as a part of its investment as a basis for the establishment of rates.

7.—That in many cities water, gas, electric light and street railway rates are excessive and should be reduced.

8.—That a law be passed terminating every public service franchise in Wisconsin on Jan. 1, 1930, and that thereafter 20 years shall be the maximum duration of any such franchise.

9.—That there be created a state commission to control and regulate local public service corporations.

10.—That local communities should have the power especially to establish water and light plants; but the governor declares there is no disposition on the part of the people of this state to unnecessarily interfere with the ownership or operation of such plants.

11.—That life insurance policies be better safeguarded.

The governor urges the purchase of more land in connection with various state institutions; asks for $50,000 for a cell house at the state prison; and for $40,000 for enlarging the home for the feeble-minded.

Irregularity in school attendance is condemned and the legislature is asked to concern itself with improving the efficiency of the rural schools. The message is rather fuller than usual of the consideration of educational themes. The work of the university is lauded; also of the financial embarrassment at the university, the governor declares it to be a result of its wonderful growth, not of extravagance and that any suspicion regarding its management are unfounded. He asks that provision be made for a woman's building, new pumping station and new machine shops.

The great work of the dairy and food department is eulogized; a strengthening of the labor bureau is urged and attention is called to its efficient services; the department of banking is praised, semi-annual examinations are recommended and the classification of deposits rather than of banks is suggested. Recommendation is made that a law be passed which will permit railway employees to cover damages for injuries, if it is found that their negligence was less than that of the railroad or that of a co-employee.

A reorganization of the forces in the various state offices is urged, the governor declaring that now there is no just relationship between salaries paid and work performed. The appointment of a legislative committee to look into this matter is suggested. Other recommendations are:

1.—That the investigation of water-powers be continued.

2.—That more care be exercised in

REPRESENTATIVE-ELECT CHARGED WITH MURDER

Judge Favrot of Baton Rouge, Killed Family Physician, Life-Long Friend And College Classmate.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 10.—Throughout this section the one topic of discussion just now is the trial of Representative-elect George K. Favrot for the alleged murder of Dr. R. H. Aldrich, his college classmate, lifelong friend and family physician. The case resembles the Thaw case in New York, in that both involve "the unwritten law." But the two cases are entirely dissimilar in respect to the reputation of the principals. In the Favrot case, up to the day of the tragedy, all those chiefly concerned were of unimpeachable reputation and of highest standing in the community. At the time of the killing Favrot was district judge and about the same time was elected a representative in congress. The victim, until a short time before his death, was a physician of high standing and known as a religious, abstemious man.

Different stories are told of the events and causes that led up to the tragedy. It is averred by his friends that Dr. Aldrich possessed a secret regarding the wife of Favrot, and that the knowledge greatly oppressed him. It is related that he appealed to a friend he could no longer preserve silence. It is said that the doctor appealed to finally consented, and this brought on the tragedy.

But the friends of Judge Favrot give an entirely different version of the case. They affirm that Dr. Aldrich, while intoxicated, was not so careful in his speech as he should have been, and made boasts that involved the good name of a woman. The usual talebearer hurried to Favrot and informed him of the alleged reflections cast by Dr. Aldrich.

The tragedy occurred November 7 last. The returns from the election were still coming in when the representative-elect walked down Capitol street. On his way numerous friends stopped him and congratulated him on his victory. Favrot thanked them, apparently as collected as ever. Leaving a group of his friends he crossed the street and entered the Raymond building. Hardly had he disappeared within the door when a pistol shot was heard, followed by another, and a third. The first to reach the scene found the body of Dr. Aldrich stretched upon the floor, with Judge Favrot, pistol in hand, looking coolly on. The physician had just descended the stairs from his office on the second floor when met by the volley of bullets that instantly killed him.

Judge Favrot has consistently refused to make public the facts that led up to the killing, except to let it be known that he killed the physician because the latter had traduced Mrs. Favrot's character. In circles known to be friendly to the Aldrich family the belief is expressed that Dr. Aldrich was a martyr, that he sacrificed his life in an unwise attempt to show his deep friendship for Judge Favrot and to reveal to him a secret with which he thought his friend ought to be made acquainted. Others express the opinion that Favrot "got the wrong man," and that he realized his error too late. Others, including some who declare they have a knowledge of the inside facts, stoutly maintain that Judge Favrot was justified in taking the law into his own hands.

Mrs. Favrot, the supposed cause of the tragedy, has been a leader in the social life of Baton Rouge. Her home has been one of the most elegant in the city and there the legislators have found hospitable greeting. Mrs. Favrot took an active part in her husband's campaign for congress when he defeated Col. "Sam" Robertson, who had represented the Sixth district for a dozen years. In connection with the killing of Dr. Aldrich Mrs. Favrot has not uttered one word for publication. Under the Louisiana laws she cannot be compelled to testify against her husband.

The Favrot family has retained a formidable array of eminent counsel to assist in the defense. The list is headed by Judge T. J. Kernan of this city, who is recognized as one of the greatest exponents of "the unwritten law" in America and whose address before the recent meeting of the American Bar association at St. Paul attracted widespread attention.

Judge Kernan formulates the "unwritten-law" system into ten cardinal laws, the fourth of which is:

"Any man who traduces a virtuous woman's character may be shot with impunity by her or her husband or any near relative. But the offender must first be given an opportunity to deny and disprove the charge or to retract and apologize."

From this it is evident that the point upon which the present trial will turn is the question as to whether Dr. Aldrich was given an opportunity to deny and disprove the "charge" or "to retract and apologize."

SEEKS TO INFLUENCE THE POSSIBLE APPROPRIATION

President Van Hise Has His Biennial Report On The University All Ready For Inspection.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 10.—The biennial report of President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin, designed to influence the present legislature to generously appropriate to the institution, takes a rap at intercollegiate athletics and declares that the badger institution is ready to suspend and abolish all physical contests if any corruption is found again in the department. "The faculty cares very little for success or non-success in intercollegiate contests," says the president, "referring to the recent faculty emancipation of the athletic system. It is believed that the steps taken are sufficient to reduce intercollegiate athletics to the subordinate place they should occupy in university life. If the steps taken are not effective steps, the faculty is in thorough sympathy with general participation of the student in outdoor games. To promote general outdoor games the regents have adopted a plan of consolidating all the indoor and outdoor work, thus making physical training for men a single department with a professor at its head."

During the past two years the university has received gifts from private sources amounting to $23,236, of which $5,000 came from J. J. Hill of St. Paul for the purpose of procuring books pertaining to railroad management and engineering.

The university authorities are preparing the usual campaign in the legislature to get additional appropriations, and this fact has stirred up violent minds among the old members, who recall that two years ago the university authorities earnestly begged for a general increase of income and that it be made permanent, so that the begging by the university authorities every session would not be necessary, but the institution could grow with the growth of the state. This was granted and now there is opposition to the plan of the authorities who will ask large additional appropriations for special purposes, besides the large annual income provided two years ago.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Potentially, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and ailing nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

PRESENT SYSTEM IS VERY FAULTY

LETTER ON THE ACTION OF RETIRING CONGRESSMEN.

TERMS ARE TOO SHORT

They Lose Interest When They Know They Must Soon Vacate.

Washington, D. C., January 7.—(Special Correspondence.)—Congress is now engaged in giving the country a most interesting exhibition, and one which furnished food for thought. At this writing the date of final adjournment is only two months away and substantially every important appropriation bill remains to be acted on. Yet at all appearances both the House and Senate are proceeding as though time were unlimited. In addition there are many matters of grave importance outside the appropriation bills, sufficient, indeed, to occupy every spare moment. It is easy to see that the closing hours of the 59th congress will be congested more than those of any late preceding congress. Observation of the proceedings during the next two months will cast some light on our system of government and may lead to some instructive conclusions. As is well known a congress sits from the first Monday in December of the year after it is elected, until it adjourns some time the following summer. It meets again the next December and sits until the following March 4, when the life of the house of representatives expires. Thus it sits about six or seven months one session and three the next. The consequence of this system is that the short session is consumed almost entirely in caring for appropriation bills, and legislation left from the session before. There is no time, or at least very little, to consider new legislation of importance, and if any is taken up, the consideration given must be very scant or other regular measures must be slighted.

General legislation can be initiated, therefore, only once every two years. An objectionable feature of the present arrangement is that most of the general legislation must be considered in the committees when about twenty-five per cent of the members are sitting for the first time. During the second session about twenty-five per cent are sitting for the last time and their interest is diminished. Thus the work of the committees suffers during both sessions, to some extent.

Another objection is the power that the committees wield during the second session. Time will not admit of a close scrutiny by individual members of even the appropriation bills. They are necessarily held back until late, and shovelled through with express speed. In consequence the committees must be relied on almost entirely. During the closing hours, one conference report after another is adopted with the scantiest consideration and under forced draught. There is no chance of a change in the system at present, but it would seem a better method if congress divided its work into two sessions of six months each. The stumbling block is that a representative does not take his seat now until nearly thirteen months after he is elected, unless an extra session is called. The matter is worth keeping an eye on, for the rush which will characterize the termination of this congress will again attract attention to the faults of our system.

The above calls to mind the fact that the demand for a change in the date of inaugurating our presidents from March 4, to April 30, appears to have been side-tracked. Last year this movement was backed by a number of states through their governors and legislatures, but nothing has been heard of it for some time.

Senator Hemmerway, of Indiana, proposes to appoint commercial travelers as American consuls in foreign countries. The proposition sounds most commendable. During the past fifteen or twenty years a gradual change has been going on in the selection of persons for consular purposes. For about a century the idea prevailed that all that was needed in a consul was some one to occupy the place and occasionally to look after shipwrecked American sailors. With that idea of the little importance of the place it is not to be wondered at that broken down ward politicians were selected for the minor positions, and broken down literary men for the more important ones. It might be said, in passing, that as a rule, the appointees carried out the American ideal of a consulate. In those days it was never dreamed of that a consul should in any way assist in finding a market for American products, and he never did. A few years ago the necessity for a change became so apparent that a closer scrutiny was exercised in making selections for consular positions, but still our consular service has not been raised to the high standard of efficiency it ought to possess.

America has come to be the great producer of the world and foreign markets are a necessity to use up our surplus. Those markets must be obtained or there will come a season of financial depression such as the country has never witnessed. A great over-production without a market means the closing down of mills, reduction of wages, and throwing of millions of idle men upon the streets of our cities, as was witnessed in 1893 and 1894. A system of wide-awake, alert, enterprising consuls means a wider and a greater market; a wider and greater market means continued prosperity. Commercial travelers are familiar with what Americans have to sell; they would be quick to see how changes should be made in manufacture, packing and shipping to meet the requirements of the people of those countries who want to buy. In short, they would be "drummers" for American goods, and American food products.

The idea that Frank B. Lyon, of Cuba, New York, who is doorkeeper of the house of representatives, would be displaced in the sixtieth congress, was quickly dispelled. Like the senate, the house has a modified civil service in that its faithful employees are kept in office as long as there is no change in the political complexion of that body. As doorkeeper Mr. Lyon has made an enviable reputation. He is a protégé of Representative Vreeland, who represents the largest republican district in the state of New York, and who is apparently good for a seat as long as he cares to come to congress. Mr. Lyon was appointed doorkeeper of the house for the 54th, 55th, 56th and 57th congresses. During the latter part of Mr. Glenn's life his health was not of the best and the duties of doorkeeper devolved almost exclusively upon Mr. Lyon. He became unusually popular among the members of the house and with everybody having business with the doorkeeper. As a result, on the death of Mr. Glenn, he was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy for the 57th congress, and has retained his position to the present. He will have the endorsement of the New York delegation, and his re-election without opposition is assured.

BIG AUDIENCE FOR "THE FLOWER GIRL"

Silver-Voiced and Charming Louise Gunning and Louis Harrison, the Laugh-Maker, Scored Big Hits. Music, often fanciful and ornate, but always appealing, because it belongs in and helps to tell the story; novel and frequently beautiful costumes and scenic settings of the somewhat unfamiliar period of France under Louis Philippe; comedy that relies rather too often on the mere surprise of sudden descents from the imaginative to the vulgar (occasionally to the too vulgar); and players who can sing as well as act, go to make up the Shuberts' production of the English version of Andre Messager's comic opera "The Flower Girl," presented abroad under the title "Veronique," and pleasing to a large and enthusiastic audience at the Myers theatre last evening. The first act drags a trifle, but there are compensations, such as the "Out in the Breezy Morning Air" song by Miss Louise Gunning, assisted by Miss DeLoux, and R. R. Hall, and the work of the quartet composed of the two first-named principals of the trio, Miss Lottie Kendall and Harry Fairleigh, in "Between 'Tis All is Over," Miss Gunning's splendid soprano and her remarkable powers of expression have a better chance in the beautiful swinging song "You Are Laughing," in the second act, and the delightful "Springtime" cadenza of the third act reveals her wonderful technical proficiency. Louis Harrison warms up to his comedy role in the beginning of the second act and before the close, whether one will or not, his antics and horseplay and his flamboyant verbal flights to the classic and back again with a fluidness that is irresistibly funny. The "chance" which the old Valencennes (Jace) essay, in "Trenchy" and "local-colorful" and, though it is in the second act also, that Miss Lottie Kendall has an opportunity to prove herself a fine singer and actress in "The Bloom of the Apple Tree" song and scene, and Harry Fairleigh employs a clear and beautiful, though not very strong, tenor, in the letter song, "Farewell—I Go." The last act presents the wonderful hellotrope reception room of the Tuilleries, aglow with a hundred candle lights, and it is here that the scenic artist and the costumer have real triumph of the evening.

Horseshoe Superstition.
In the latter half of the seventeenth century a writer mentions that most of the houses in the west end of London were protected against witches by horseshoes nailed in them. As late as 1813 there were 17 horseshoes nailed up in one London street, but in 1841 only five remained.

Where the Danger Lies
The great danger of colds at this season of the year is that they lead to grip and consumption.

The moment you begin to take patent medicines and so-called cough cures, the majority of which depend entirely on nerve deadening drugs for their effect, you weaken the body.

That takes away the vital force necessary to ward off disease and the germs develop and because the body is weakened in this way is why pneumonia is so often fatal.

Father John's Medicine is not a patent medicine and does not contain alcohol or dangerous drugs. It cures Throat, Lung Troubles, Coughs and Colds, and is guaranteed.

ARE NOT CONSULTED AS TO THE PROJECT

M. R. Osborn, of the Local Factory and Richard Wagner of Menominee Falls Disclaim any Knowledge.
If the American Sugar company has bought or contemplates buying the factories of the Rock County, the United States and the Chippewa Falls Sugar companies, M. R. Osborn, manager of the local factory and Richard Wagner owner of the Menominee Falls factory and interested in both the Madison and Chippewa Falls plants, do not know it. The report was current on the streets yesterday that Mr. Osborn could not be found to affirm or deny the report. This morning he had a long distance conversation over the telephone with Mr. Wagner and that gentleman said he felt hurt at not being informed of the project of the American Sugar Company before they claimed to have bought his factory. Mr. Osborn laughed at the report and said that there was nothing to it. Mr. Wagner recently acquired an interest in the Madison factory, purchasing Theodore Hapke's interests in the concern.

MR. HELMER CHOSEN FOR CLINTON JOB

Congressman Cooper Settles the Clinton Post Office Fight by His Appointment.
Fred R. Helmer, editor of the Clinton Banner, has been selected by Congressman Cooper as the postmaster of that village to succeed W. A. Mayhew, who recently surprised the politicians of the county by announcing that he did not care for reappointment. The announcement that Mr. Helmer was to be the chosen one was given out in Washington last evening. The Clinton fight and the Beloit discussion have been two of the most serious troubles regarding postoffices that Congressman Cooper has had to contend with. Mr. Mayhew's withdrawal last week left the field open for Helmer's appointment although there were several other candidates. Thus far the congressman has given no intimation as to what he intends to do regarding the Beloit office and Postmaster Cham Ingersoll still holds the office although his term has expired and no successor has been appointed. There are still three avowed candidates for the position, Ingersoll, Dowd and Worthington.

THIEF TOOK ONLY HALF THE CHANGE

Pure Milk Company's Station Broken into During Night and Fifty Cents Taken from Register.
Sometime during the night the station of the Janesville Pure Milk company on North Bluff street was broken into and a very small amount of change taken from the cash register. Entrance to the building was gained by breaking in a rear window and the office door being open the trespasser had easy access to the money drawer. But one dollar in change had been left in this drawer and only half that amount was missing when the proprietors checked up their accounts after discovering the theft. It is possible that the thief was frightened away by a collie dog which sleeps in the office. The safe, which has not been used as a money vault since a former robbery of the place, was not tampered with.

Quake Victim Appreciative: Included in the consignment sent out from Brodhead last spring to the Frisco quake victims was a new suit of clothes purchased by M. Bowen. In the vest pocket of the suit the donor placed a note addressed to the wearer, asking him; whoever he might be, to write and reveal his identity. Coming east from California, Miss Gertrude Warren of Albany got into conversation on the train with a man named Thos. P. Hayes, who lost everything in the disaster and afterwards went to Dallas, Texas. When he learned that Miss Warren was a resident of Wisconsin he drew a note from his pocket and showed it to her. It was the one Mr. Bowen had written and when she declared that she was acquainted with the writer he begged her to see that it was returned to him. It was forwarded in due time to her brother, Eugene Warren, and has at length reached Mr. Bowen.

..Forty Years Ago..

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, January 9, 1867.—Fire.—The house of Mr. Vosburg, on North Second St., was discovered to be on fire in the second story, about 6 o'clock last evening. The fire was extinguished with little damage to the building.

Behind Time.—The Janesville passenger from Chicago due here at 12:30 p. m. yesterday did not arrive until 3:30 this morning. It was detained by a freight train getting off the track near Barrington station. No one hurt.

Extremes Met.—The Washington correspondent to the New York Tribune writes to this effect:
Most of the Congressional extremists have returned to this city from their southern tour, and the rest will doubtless return by the first of next week. Little change had been effected in the minds of those participating in the excursion regarding the political questions of the day, and those who believed that the toasting and feasting which the southern people extended would blunt the purposes of some of the party are likely to be mistaken. An anecdote may at least illustrate the feelings of one of the men in the party. While at New Orleans three men elbowed their way through the crowd and asked for Ben Wade, and, on being introduced to the Senator, announced themselves as rebels, declaring they had always been rebels and would always be rebels, as they were honest in the belief of the righteousness of the lost cause.

"Well, gentlemen," said the Senator, "I am happy to meet you. You are the first rebels I have seen since the war closed; the balance of the Southern people claim to be Union men. Now tell me, if you please, how you intend to carry on such a dangerous war against the government and keep it up for four long years by yourselves." The crowd received the rebuke in silence.

Before The Footlights.

The announcement of the coming of Puccini's opera, "Madam Butterfly," to the Illinois in Chicago for a two weeks' engagement beginning Jan.
21st, has aroused a wider interest among music lovers than any production Mr. Henry W. Savage has sent west since his celebrated "Parsifal."

Those who have already heard the opera during its record-breaking run at the Garden theatre, New York, declare it the most beautiful production of grand opera that has ever been brought to America. The Japanese settings and costumes are picturesque and brilliant, while the wizard composer, Puccini, according to Mr. H.
E. Krehbiel, the dean of American music critics, on the New York Tribune, says: "The music has the very fragrance of the flowers."

Henry W. Savage, spent eight months in organizing his new company; his agents visiting every prominent opera house in Europe for available prima donnas to sing the exciting title role. Walter Rothwell, the conductor who was so highly praised for his work with the "Parsifal" orchestra, together with the composer himself, found one of the prima donnas at Budapest, where "Madam Butterfly" was last winter's operatic sensation. This is the little Hungarian beauty, Elza Szamossy, and a protégée of Queen Carmen Sylva. She will probably be heard at the opening performance.

At his home in Milan Puccini also found Miss Rena Vivienne, the talented Duluth girl who was introduced in Europe by the great Victor Maurel, after three years of special coaching.
Miss Vivienne sang the opera for Puccini at La Scala and so charmed the composer that he called Mr. Savage to engage her at once.

The third "Madam Butterfly" is a beautiful coloratura soprano, Florence Easton, from Covent Garden. Miss Easton is well known for her success last season in America in "Rigo-letto."

At the Berlin Opera Company Mr. Savage found Harriet Balmoe, the contralto, who sings the role of Suzuki, the little Japanese maid to Butterfly, and at Dresden was secured Estelle Bloomfield, a pupil of Lilli Lehmann, an artist so versatile that she sings either the title role or that of Suzuki. Ethel Duffie Houston, the contralto, who was brought from Paris three years ago for the Savage Grand Opera Co., has also been engaged for the role of Suzuki.

From last year's well-remembered
"Parsifal" grand opera company, we are to hear again those two superb tenors, Francis MacLennan and Joseph T. Sheehan. The entire cast for "Madam Butterfly" numbers nearly twenty roles with a chorus of Geisha girls, Japanese officials and native friends of Butterfly. The big orchestra of sixty musicians will be under Walter Rothwell from Vienna; Albert Reith from Berlin, and Cornelis Doppler from Amsterdam.

Arrangements are being made for excursion rates on all railroads during "Madam Butterfly's" engagement in Chicago.

It is almost certain that "The Heir to the Throne," the delightful comedy of the west by Paul Armstrong, will soon be produced in Australia. J.
C. Williamson, the most prominent theatrical manager of that far distant country, saw the play in Chicago, during its recent run there, and declared it to be one of the two best plays he had ever seen in America.

Charles Frohman has already secured the English rights to this clever character comedy and expects it to prove very successful across the water. So happily is the story told that it is quite in keeping with the requirements of our English brethren and will need no adaptation for British audiences.

One of the important characters in "The Time, the Place and the Girl" is an up-to-date trained nurse, thoroughly well-to-do, addicted to graphic slang and repartee, but a true woman at heart. It affords one of the best opportunities for character-acting ever offered in musical comedy.

Miss Fannie McWane, Little Geneva,
Wis., writes of HAIR HEALTH:

"My hair had been gray ever since I was sixteen years old. It started to get gray right on the crown of my head, was dry and full of dandruff, and my scalp itching dreadfully. I used HAIR HEALTH and in a few days my hair was growing and glossy, and very few gray hairs left. I do not think I could get along without HAIR HEALTH now, for it is such a fine hair dressing."

THE JANSVILLE MARKETS.

Quotations on Grain and Produce for The Gazette.

Jan. 9, 1907.

FLOUR—1st Patent, at $1.10 to $1.20.

WHEAT—Chicago Cash, No. 1 and 2 Northern $0.10 to $0.12.

BARLEY—$0.50 to $0.60 per ton.

OATS—$0.40 to $0.50.

TIMOTHY—Seed—Retail at $1.75 to $2.00 a bu
Buy at $1.45 to $1.55 bu.

FEED—Pure corn and oats, $15.00 to $18.50 ton.

BRAN—$22 sacked per ton.

STANDARD MIDDINGS—$22.50 sacked.

OIL MEAT—$1.80 to $1.95 per cent.

CORN MEAT—$1.80 per ton.

HAY—Per ton baled $1.00 to $1.10.

STRAW—Per ton baled, $5.00.

BUTTER—Dairy, 25 to 30c.

CREAMERY—30c.

POTATOES—35 to 40c.

EGGS—fresh, 25c.

Mild weather, fairly good roads, and a lively market are doing much to improve prices for local produce.

Prices may vary a trifle from the above quotations at different stores, but the average has been reached, and the above figures are practically correct. Rye is being bought at 60 cents for sixty pounds, instead of 57 as last week, while barley has dropped from 45 to 35 to 40. Oats have risen from 25 to 30 to 35. Straw is now worth 25 per ton baled. Dairy butter is worth 25 to 30 and creamery has gone up a half cent to 32½. Eggs have come down, with the warm weather to 25 cents for the fresh and may possibly go lower. The tobacco warehousemen complain that they are being asked to accept more tobacco just now than they can really well handle. The warm, wet weather has placed the crop on the market much earlier than usual and consequently everyone is trying to deliver at once.

Value of Meat Extracts.

A medical expert points out that meat juice and meat extracts have a value quite separate from their actual nutritive constituents, inasmuch as they have a direct stimulating action on the gastric juice.

Where Soldiers are Barred.

An order has been issued in St.
Petersburg forbidding common soldiers to walk on the sunny side of the Nevsky and the fashionable side of the Morskaya. In winter the officers object to removing their hands from the inside of their military capes to answer salutes, as military law requires.

Two indictments were returned also against the Grand Canyon Lime & Cement company, one of six counts for accepting rebates and the other containing 17 counts charging it with accepting concessions.

Murdered for Six Cents

New York, Jan. 10.—Dominic Christie accused Frank Blaha, a butcher of Jamaica, L. I., of overcharging him six cents on a purchase of meat. A fight ensued in which Blaha was stabbed several times in the head and shoulder and sustained a fracture of the skull, the injuries resulting in his death Wednesday.

Archbishop Montgomery Ill.

San Francisco, Jan. 10.—Archbishop George Montgomery is dangerously ill at the Adler sanitarium in this city, where it is reported he suffered a relapse Wednesday morning. His relatives have been summoned. The distinguished Catholic prelate was operated upon for appendicitis several days ago.

Want Bailey Investigated.

of the conduct of United States Senator J. W. Bailey, of this state, was in-

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Probably snow and colder tonight, Friday fair and colder.

THE NEW SPEAKER

The sharp contest for speaker of the assembly was settled in the republican caucus Tuesday night by the selection of Ekern of Trempealeau. The friends of LeRoy, who was a close second, are naturally disappointed, and yet, aside from the fact that the junior senator is said to have desired the selection of the successful candidate, but little significance attaches to the choice.

The speaker will, of course, name committees who are favorable to reforms, still to be exploited, and the Mary Ann amendment to the primary law, is likely to receive favorable consideration. This is as it should be, the monstrosity simply needs a few more frills to disgust people generally, and put it out of business.

The state, as well as the nation, is passing through a reform era, and everything should be done to hasten the passage. It is like any other epidemic, when it has passed beyond control, clear the decks and let it run its course.

The young man Ekern is a victim of the disease, in virulent form, and better qualified to sympathize with his fellow sufferers, than LeRoy who is in the convalescent stage. The governor and lieutenant governor are trailing along at the tail end of the procession, and would like to let go, but the pace is too swift to sever the connection with safety.

Under all the circumstances, Ekern is the best man that could have been selected for speaker. He possesses ability, nerve and a resourceful advisor, combinations which tell in these piping days of reform. The governor will find him ready to listen, and go him one better on all propositions looking toward the relief of downtrodden humanity. That ought to help some.

The Wisconsin legislature is in for a six months' session, but the walking will be good after the first of May and arrangements will be made for a tie-pass for members from a distance.

SENSIBLE REFORMS

The National Business League, composed of business men from all parts of the country, has recently petitioned congress in the interests of two reforms which are much needed.

One of them is a demand for stringent laws to protect the public domain. While it may be late in the day to accomplish much in this direction, as the public domain has been largely gobbled up by land-grabbers and speculators, still there are some sections of arid country now being made attractive by irrigation which needs protection.

The land frauds unearthed during the past few years show the need of drastic measures, and President Roosevelt is vigorous in denunciation. The congress will do well to give the question careful attention, and while considering it some way should be devised to dispense with the lottery schemes employed in the land department.

The other reform mentioned is a demand for a more intelligent and better paid consular service. The fact should be generally known that the American consul, as a body, is a by-word and laughing stock for the world.

They are the poorest paid men in government employ, and when they line up with representatives of other nations, who are liberally paid for the same kind of service, comparisons are humiliating and odious.

The salaries are so small that it becomes necessary to fill the places by men of ordinary ability, and yet the work is so important that it should command the best talent.

An American consul is neither a diplomat nor a statesman, however much he may aspire to these distinctions. He is simply the plain business representative of 80 million people abroad.

He is not a traveling salesman, but he is supposed to keep the nation in touch with conditions in his territory, and on the strength of his report, merchants and manufacturers depend to greater or less extent.

He is a bureau of information, the one American abroad who is supposed to know. Back of him is the intelligence, wealth, and energy of the greatest nation on the globe, a nation that commands universal respect and honor.

The position of consul is a responsible position, filled with possibilities of the greatest importance, and yet it is treated like a football. The salary list is so meagre that it offers no inducement, and an appointment means cheap honor, and the payment of a political debt.

The whole system needs revising. More than ship subsidy, and a lot of measures now being considered, the nation needs well paid and more intelligent representatives abroad.

STOCK LIFE INSURANCE

"The outlook for insurance in 1907," says the Insurance Press, "is not discouraging to a company issuing stock or non-participating insurance and having a reputation and financial strength that will command confidence. The public has been disappointed in the results of mutual or participating insurance, as practiced by some companies, and has included among the objects of its displeasure not only these but also mutual companies, against which nothing unfavorable should be said. The method has, therefore, become discredited in the estimation of many. Such people and many others are not reassured when they observe that the practices of the ward politician are being employed in the annual elections of boards of directors."

"It is my impression that stock insurance will come into renewed, immediate and permanent favor upon its merits, because the non-participating contract is a simple one. Its net cost is no greater, to say the least, than that of a participating contract. A definite amount of insurance is given for a definite premium, and the transaction contains no element of conjecture."

It is gratifying to know that the shaking up in life insurance circles has resulted in many reforms. There is no reason why this business should not be conducted on business principles.

The elusive dividend, which has been the strong feature in soliciting life insurance, has lost many of its attractive features, and the general public has arrived at the very common sense conclusion that the best time to pay a dividend, is when the premium is collected.

There is no reason why a man should not buy life insurance the same as he buys fire insurance. The actuary tables are reliable, and all the money to which a company is entitled is enough to provide a reserve and pay legitimate expenses. The great surplus, so freely exploited, belongs to the policy-holders and has no right to exist.

It is a liability, and not an asset, when honestly considered, and yet it is frequently used as the public crib, open to all comers. It is a fund so easily created that most any kind of a conscience can appropriate it, without compunction, and this is frequently done.

Stock life insurance dispenses with this tempting surplus, and leaves it in the hands of the insured, where it belongs. It is the coming insurance, and is bound to be popular, because it is right.

Among the interesting figures given by Mr. Frank Baiges, at the Twilight club the other night, was the volume of money that would be used by Janesville dealers in handling the 1906 tobacco crop. His estimate of money paid the growers was $2,000,000 and to this must be added a liberal amount for packing. Many farmers are receiving $250 per acre for their crop.

PRESS COMMENT.

Lid-Weight Needed?

Chicago Record-Herald: It is the czar's misfortune that he has no Taft.

"Stills" Must Still Be Inspected

Racine Journal: The denatured alcohol made by farmers may be made later on. The present law will not permit of it.

Queer Consolation

Exchange: A London suffragette has christened her baby boy Francis. Isn't this having revenge on the wrong person?

However, Most of It's Paid For

La Crosse Tribune: The theatrical trust undoubtedly would pay a goodly sum if it could hire Mrs. Christian Science Eddy's busy press agent.

Or Jag

Oshkosh Northwestern: Somehow the new senator from Colorado, Mr. Guggenheim, has a name that is singularly suggestive of a jug.

Unsuppressed

Superior Telegram: The Minneapolis Journal makes note of the following: "Nobody has suppressed Senator La Follette yet—and the winter is wearing away."

Back to the Strict Sabbath

Milwaukee Sentinel: Boston will abolish music in hotels and cafes on Sunday. This tendency to look for ward with pleasurable anticipations instead of dread to the day of rest must be checked.

Shaw Outshined

Green Bay Gazette: Geo. Burnhard Pshaw has been eclipsed. They have put on a play at the notorious Moulin Rouge in Paris which has shocked even the hitherto immodest patrons of the place.

So Soon Forgotten

Racine Journal: The expiring echoes of the Ironclad holocaust are dying out. The former building inspector is released because of statutes of limitations, and the release of the manager of the theatre may be looked for soon.

Compensation—Not Salary!

Beloit Free Press: The Janesville aldermen are in the slough of despondency. The city attorney has rendered the opinion that the ordinance recently passed by them providing for the drawing of salary by the aldermen is null and void.

Gov. Jim's Blow to Pessimism

Chicago Inter Ocean: There are, it is said to say, some pessimists who still believe that we are not being uplifted as rapidly as we might be. And yet the governor of Wisconsin has eliminated the inaugural ball in the interest of higher ideals.

Possessed of Rich Shearings Oconto Enquirer: "If John D. Rockefeller and such captains lived under a monarchy they would be noblemen or knights," says an admiring contemporary. Mr. Rockefeller would be Grand Commander of the Knights of the Golden Fleece.

Plenty of Uprooting Ahead

Fond du Lac: Dr. W. J. McGee of St. Louis says the future American will be taller, stronger and more intellectual than the men of today. If he is, he'll have to cut out many of the habits now doing a brain and body stunting business with our youth.

Peoria Ornament to Be Restored

Chicago Tribune: Certain skillful friends of ex-Banker Dougherty, now a resident of Joliet, but formerly of Peoria, have managed to erase the record of his "errors," and his return to society as one of its distinguished ornaments appears to be only a question of time.

Couldn't Happen Elsewhere

Green Bay Gazette: The news staff of the Kalamazoo Gazette will start its daily work with prayer as a result of an edict proclaimed the other day by the managing editor. Evidently one newspaper man has made a New Year resolution to which he intends to adhere.

Ashes Gathered Free Again

Exchange: The city of Milwaukee has decided to return to its plan of free collection of ashes. The dropping of this system caused a general howl of indignation on the part of citizens, who wanted to know what they got back for the taxes they were paying into the city treasury.

Wall Not to Stand in Way

Appleton Post: The presidential situation for 1908, so far as the democracy is concerned, is somewhat simplified by the announcement of E. C. Wall of Milwaukee that he will not be a candidate for the nomination again. Mr. Wall made this important announcement in Washington the other day, whether he was accompanied by his young wife, formerly his typewriter, in the course of a bridal tour.

Dubious Proposition

Oshkosh Northwestern: The Madison Journal believes it would be a good thing for the state to purchase the Green Bay & Western railroad, just as experiment to see what could be done with state ownership of railroads. And about the only good argument which the Journal advances in favor of the plan is its claim that "if experiment failed there is reason to believe the state could get its money back," although on even this important point there are many who will insist the Journal is seriously mistaken.

The Incoming Tide

Milwaukee Free Press: There was a loss of 17,560 Irish, 15,218 English, 2,337 Swedish, 3,010 German, 1,123 Danish and 1,111 Scotch immigrants for 1906, as compared with 1905, coming to this country. But what was lost in these classes of incomers was offset by a gain of 61,841 Italians, 30,768 Russians, 8,974 Greeks and 5,108 Turks.

The total number of immigrants admitted during the year was 1,100,735. And of this number a small proportion only adds anything except to the mere number of people here.

A Horrid Record

Madison Democrat: In more ways than one was the year just gone remarkable. Its prosperity may be said to be fairly shocking when it is realized that there were 72 lynchings during 1906 in the United States, or five more than were recorded of 1905. But there were 57 in 1904, 104 in 1903, 96 in 1902 and 135 in 1901. Still the 1906 figures do not make account of such mob killings as occurred in the Atlanta riots, where 10 innocent negroes were killed along with two white men. The destruction of life from these sporadic conflicts in the south has probably been greater in the past year than common.

BELOIT BUTCHER TO TEST OLEO STATUTE

Packers Backing Him Have Retained Legal Firm of Quarles, Spence & Quarles.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
 Beloit, Wis., Jan. 10.—The case of the state against E. W. Berger, a butcher, charged with selling colored oleomargarine in violation of the Wisconsin law, was called in Municipal Court this morning and continued until the eighteenth. The Chicago packing concern of Nelson, Morris & Company has retained the legal firm of Quarles, Spence & Quarles to defend Berger and local attorneys expect the constitutionality of the oleo bill will be tested.

Spent $250 in Two Weeks.
 Joe McDonald, whose face is familiar in the local police court, was arraigned today on a charge of drunkenness, fined $10 and costs and sent to the county jail for 5 days, in which time it is expected he will be able to become sober. Two weeks ago McDonald secured $420, his portion of his late father's estate, which had been held in trust in the Beloit Savings bank at the direction of the heir's brother, Will McDonald, of Chicago. Joe McDonald began suit to secure this recently and the amount was turned over to him before the case was allowed to be heard in court. When McDonald was arrested he had but $170 in his pockets and it is believed he "blew" the other $250. He claims to have been robbed in a local barroom.

MARINETTE MAN IS MURDERED IN BARN

Shot Down by His Partner As He Enters His Home.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
 Marinette, Wis., Jan. 10.—Ed. Briggs is dying and Ed. Sudewald is arrested for shooting him this afternoon. No cause is given. They were lumber partners. Briggs was shot as he entered Rudewald's home.

Be Not Discouraged.

There is no reason to be discouraged, no matter what or where you are. You can make something out of your life, find something worth while in yourself. Each one of us has infinite possibilities, and by faith and work untiring they are realized.—Margaret Hubbard Ayer.

How the Ant Sees It.

There's a lesson to be learned from this brief extract from an article in the Overland Monthly: "I know one thing—that I'll never as long as I live kick over an anthill just to see what the ants will do. I know how it feels to be an ant. That is what one Stanford girl said a few hours after the earthquake of April 18."

WOMAN IN STRANGE FIELDS

Exploration and Discovery No Longer Left to the Sterner Sex.

Not long ago the triumph of a woman who had ascended one of the Himalaya peaks to a height hitherto unequalled by any mountain climber was duly chronicled. A few days later a foreign news item announced the arrival in South Africa of an American young woman who seeks the jungle in order to study the language of the monkey tribe. She is alone in her daring quest and appears to have a full realization of its perils.

Still another venturesome woman is Margaret Selenka, of German birth, who is to head an important scientific expedition to Java in the early part of the coming year. She goes there in the endeavor to establish the identity of a fossil manape found on the island, as the so-called missing link. It is evident that these women are admitting no handicap because of their sex. They are courageously entering regions that few men have penetrated and their action suggests that it may not be long before the supremacy of the sterner sex in the fields of exploration and discovery will be very seriously questioned.

Swelled Them Up.

The young man had gone to New York to become an actor. He got a job as a super in one of the theaters, and then wrote home: "I am cleaning up everything in the theater," whereas his good people were muchly swelled up.

She—I hear that Danber, the artist, uses his wife as his model.
 He—Yes, I hear he has to draw on her for everything.

A Poser

"Father, are generals brave men?" asked Johnny of his father. "Yes, my son, as a rule," was the answer. "Then why does artists always make pictures of 'em standing on a hill three miles away looking at a battle through an opera-glass?"

RUNAWAY CARS WRECKED HOTEL

UNION HOUSE ON NORTH FIRST STREET ALMOST WORTHLESS.

PROPRIETOR SWIFESHOCKED

Mrs. G. S. Walrath Confined to Her Bed and Pronounced by Physician to be in Critical Condition.

Breaking free from the switchengue while going at such a speed that the brakes failed to hold three freight cars on over the ends of a switch track in the rear of the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul freight depot this morning, crashed into the Union House and practically wrecked the structure. Mrs. G. S. Walrath, wife of the proprietor, who is in a critical condition, was so shocked by the crash that she has been confined to her bed since and the attending physician pronounces her condition as serious. With the exception of one boarder who was struck by falling plaster, all other persons in the building escaped injury.

Two Switchmen "On Top." It was about quarter past seven that the accident occurred. It is alleged the switching crew was attempting to place three cars on the central of the three tracks when the coupling between the locomotive and a car gave way. Foreman Willis Taylor and Switchman William Brennan were on the cars and with haste applied the brakes. The cars, however, were not stopped and there being no bumpers at the ends of the tracks, the three proceeded onto the Walrath property and tearing down telephone wires on their way, crashed into the rear of the hostelry.

Much Damage to Building. The Union House is one of the oldest frame buildings in the city and is peculiar in its construction in that the walls are erected on and the roof is held up by a number of immense perpendicular timbers. The draw bar of one truck cut through the side of the structure and one of those timbers squarely. It was shattered and the entire building was skewed out of shape. The whole middle portion of the structure was shoved over three inches and a half. This is shown by the condition of the foundation along the sidewalk on North First street and throughout the interior are other evidences of the impact.

Details of Destruction. In the dining room the wood finishing was splintered and cracked and plaster fell from walls and ceiling. The same thing occurred in the bar room and office and there is not an uncracked ceiling in any of the eighteen bed rooms on the second floor. In many of these plaster fell, terribly frightening the occupants and in one sleeping boarder was hit on the shoulder by a huge piece that dropped from the ceiling. His escape from serious injury and the fact that no others were hurt is indeed wonderful. The walls in the hallways were pushed out of plumb and floors unlevelled.

Walrath Will Not Settle. Mr. Walrath said this morning that he would make no settlement with the railroad company until the outcome of his wife's illness was known. She was sent within 10 feet of where the building was struck and both her nervous and physical health was injured. Mr. Walrath believes the building is but unrepairable and stated that a condemnation of the structure would not surprise him.

ONE DOLLAR IS SUM INVOLVED IN SUIT

To Which H. H. Noel and John Grubb Are Parties—Both Acting as Own Attorneys.

One dollar is the consideration involved in the suit of H. H. Noel vs. John Grubb, for repairs alleged to have been made in the plaintiff's blacksmith shop on a wagon belonging to defendant, March 2, 1906, which is being tried in Judge Reeder's court today. Both parties to the action are trying their own causes and Mr. Grubb who claims that he retired from business on March 1 and that he sold all his vehicles and horses in February, solemnly cross-examined himself this morning. Testimony was taken from seven witnesses this morning and two more this afternoon and the costs of the case will total about $15. A verdict will probably not be rendered until some time after the testimony and arguments are concluded.

SAY SIGNS AREN'T SOLIDLY ANCHORED

Some of the City Officials Object to Manner of Handling the Recent $400 Investment.

Representatives of the American Sign Co. of Clyde, Ohio, are putting up 400 odd street signs which have been purchased by the city at the rate of 40 cents apiece for the signs without posts and 10 cents each for tacking them up. These signs are made with the lettering cut in a blue metal slide which accommodates a piece of white cardboard to serve as the background. The same have to be attached to strips of pine and after this is done, according to observers, there is no way to attach them to telephone poles except by "nailing," that is by driving the nails in at an angle. For should the nails be driven straight through the metal and board it would be impossible to remove the cardboard slide when it becomes soiled. The process of "anchoring" the signs does not look very substantial to some of the city officials who claim that a few high winds will sweep a large share of the city's $400 investment in highway placards from their moorings and that the greater portion will be lost.

GOT GIRL BY WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

Ole Ostenson Compelled to Take Legal Measures to Recover Daughter, Living with Plymouth Family.

To recover his daughter from the family of Christian Fossum, residing in the town of Plymouth, Ole Ostenson of North Dakota was compelled to take legal action and yesterday Attorney T. D. Woolsey of Beloit, secured a writ of habeas corpus from Probate Judge J. W. Sale. It is said that when the child's mother died she was taken by the Fossums, who have become very much attached to her. In the meantime Ostenson has been in the Dakotas and prospered. His circumstances have become such that he wanted his daughter, Olivia, whose age is about 15 years, to live with him, as he came for her. Her foster parents refused to give her back and the court proceedings ensued. Ole Martin Hanson of Newark was given the power of attorney and has gone for the child.

180 ACCIDENTS HERE IN 1906

PHYSICIANS ALSO REPORT 291 BIRTHS AND 161 DEATHS.

FAT FEES FOR LATE DATA

Will Be Paid Out by County Board—Rev. Tippet Had the Most.

Register of Deeds Charles Weirick and his deputies, Miss Belle Stoddard and Miss Frances Ryckman, have been busy of late in preparing the annual report for the county board of the births, deaths, accidents, and marriages in Rock county during the year 1906. This report is made up from the office duplicates of the quarterly reports which have to be sent in to the state board of health with the names in alphabetical order and without any compensation for the immense amount of labor involved. Moreover, at the last moment physicians and ministers have brought in a mass of data, all of which should have been turned in within 30 days of the time the events narrated occurred. Such excess is punishable by a fine of not less than $50 or more than $100 in the cases of births, deaths, and accidents, and not less than $25 for marriages, provided criminal action is commenced against the offenders before they have filed the information in question. As liberal fees of 25 cents for each case are allowed the physicians and ministers and 15 cents for each to the health officers, making 40 cents in all for every individual item, there is really no excuse for the delays. Some of the ministers have lately reported marriages dating back of June, 1905, when the new law went into effect and no fees will be paid for these. Some of the physicians, also, have reported trifling accidents which did not necessitate the victims for work for two weeks, as stipulated by the law. In the past year the business of the office, now conducted entirely without fees, has been increased $800, indicating that some more liberal allowance will have to be made in the near future either for extra assistance or overtime work.

Births, Deaths, and Accidents. Health Officer W. W. Crockett of Beloit receives $125.70 for reporting 431 births, 176 deaths, and 111 accidents. Former Health Officer T. H. McCarthy of Janesville receives $25.15 for reporting 72 births, 42 deaths, and 42 accidents. Health Officer W. D. Merritt will be paid $33.15 for reporting 219 births, 119 deaths, and 138 accidents. Dr. Woods is to receive $20.75 for reporting 29 births, 26 deaths, and 28 accidents. Dr. Fred Sutherland will get $35.50. Dr. H. Palmer $35.25. Dr. Chittenden $5.75. Dr. Farnsworth $11. Dr. Buckmaster $2. Dr. Judd $4.50. Dr. O. Q. Sutherland $7.50. Dr. Loomis $11.50. Dr. M. A. Cunningham $9. Dr. Chas. Sutherland $5. Dr. Mills $7.25. Dr. Geo. Webster 50 cents. Dr. Guy Waulfrie 25 cents. Dr. Edden $6.50. Dr. T. W. Nuzum, 80 cents. Dr. E. H. Dudley 75 cents. ## TALK CELEBRATION ON FOURTH OF JULY

United Spanish War Veterans Thinking About Holding Big Celebration.

Camp 23 of the United Spanish War Veterans are seriously considering a project of asking the city of Janesville to permit them to conduct a Fourth of July celebration this year. They plan to have a civic and military parade in the morning with plenty of music, invited militia companies, regiments if they can be obtained, other camps of Spanish War veterans and wind up the afternoon with a sham battle in which lots of powder is expended and a truly realistic scene enacted. In the evening there would be band concerts and fireworks. This plan was tried at Racine last year, although the Racine camp of veterans borrowed from the Nonestich Bros. circus parade, calling it the "Linglings." A battery of artillery from Ft. Sheridan added to the realistic scenes of the day and the city was filled with visitors. The affair was extensively advertised by means of huge posters throughout the entire state. This matter is to be discussed the regular meeting of the camp two weeks from tonight when definite action will be taken on the subject. If the council grants the camp the right to use the streets for parades and a fourth of July celebration plans will be at once laid for a monster celebration which will include all the southern portion of the state.

MRS. EDDY'S REPLY TO THE JANUARY McCLURE ARTICLE

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 4.—

The January issue of McClure's Magazine, which undertakes to publish the history of the early life of the Reverend Mary Baker Eddy, Leader of the Christian Scientists, and her family, has been brought to the attention of Mrs. Eddy. She has taken the pains to correct the matter, and has sent out the following statement over her own signature:

It is calamity on Christian Science to say that man is aroused to thought or action only by pain, pleasure, or recompense. Something higher, nobler, more imperative, impels the impulse of Soul.

It becomes my duty to be just to the departed and to tread not ruthlessly on their ashes. The attack on me and my late father and his family in McClure's Magazine, January, 1907, compels me as a dutiful child and the Leader of Christian Science to speak.

McClure's Magazine refers to my father's "tall, gaunt frame," and pictures "the old man tramping doggedly along the highway regularly beating the ground with a huge walking-stick." My father's person was erect and robust. He never used a walking-stick. To illustrate: One time when my father was visiting Governor Pierce, President of the New Hampshire State Militia, and as they were about to start for church, my father thanked the Governor, but declined to accept the stick, saying, "I never use a cane."

Although McClure's Magazine attributes to my father language unbecomingly, his household law, constantly enforced, was no profanity and no slang phrases. McClure's Magazine also declares that the Bible was the only book in his house. On the contrary, my father was a great reader.

The man, whom McClure's Magazine characterizes as "ignorant, dominating, passionate, fearless," was uniformly dignified—a well-informed, intellectual man, cultivated in mind and manners. He was called upon to do much business for his town, making out deeds, settling quarrels, and even acting as counsel in a law suit involving a question of pauperism between the towns of Loudon and Bow. N. H. Franklin Pierce, afterward President of the United States, was the counsel for Loudon and Mark Baker for Bow. Both entered their pleas, and my father won the suit. After it was decided, Mr. Pierce bowed to my father and congratulated him. For several years, father was chaplain of the New Hampshire State Militia, and as I recollect it, he was Justice of the Peace at one time. My father was a strong believer in State's rights, but slavery he regarded as a great sin.

Mark Baker was the youngest of his father's family, and inherited his father's real estate, an extensive farm situated in Bow and Concord, N. H. It is on record that Mark Baker's father paid the largest tax in the colony.

McClure's Magazine says, describing the Baker homestead at Bow: "The house itself was a small, square box structure of rudimentary architecture." My father's house had a sloping roof after the prevailing style of architecture at that date.

McClure's Magazine states: "Alone of the Bakers, he (Albert) received a liberal education." * * * Mary Baker passed her first fifteen years at the ancestral home at Bow. It was a lonely and unstimulating existence. The church supplied the only social diversion, the district school practically all the intellectual life.

Let us see what were the fruits of this "lonely and unstimulating existence." All my father's daughters were given an academic education, sufficiently advanced so that they all taught school acceptably at various times and places.

My brother Albert was a distinguished lawyer. In addition to my academic training, I was privately tutored by him. He was a member of the New Hampshire Legislature, and was nominated for Congress but died before the election.

McClure's Magazine calls my youngest brother George Sullivan Baker, "a workman in a Tilton woolen mill." As a matter of fact, he was joint partner with Alexander Tilton, and together they owned a large manufacturing establishment in Tilton, N. H. His military title of Colonel came from appointment on the staff of the Governor of New Hampshire.

My oldest brother, Samuel D. Baker, carried on a large business, in Boston, Mass.

Regarding the allegation by McClure's Magazine that all the family, "excepting Albert, died of cancer," I will say that there was never a death in my father's family reported by physician or post-mortem examination as caused by cancer.

McClure's Magazine says that "the quarrels between Mary, a child ten years old, and her father, a gray-haired man of fifty, frequently set the house in an uproar," and adds that these "fits" were diagnosed by Dr. Ladd as "hysteria mingled with bad temper."

My mother often presented my disposition as exemplary for her other children to imitate, saying, "When do you ever see Mary angry?" When the first edition of Science and Health was published, Dr. Ladd said to Alexander Tilton: "Read it, for it will do you good. It does not surprise me, it so resembles the author."

I will relate the following incident, which occurred later in life, as illustrative of my disposition:

While I was living with Dr. Patterson at his country home in Rumney, N. H., a girl, totally blind, knocked at the door and was admitted. She begged to be allowed to remain with me, and my tenderness and sympathy were such that I could not refuse her. Shortly after, however, my good housekeeper said to me:

"If this blind girl stays with you, I shall have to leave; she troubles me so much."

It was not in my heart to turn the blind girl out, and so I lost my housekeeper.

My reply to the statement that the

What prevented Dr. Patterson's arrest was a letter from me to this selfsame husband, imploring him not to do it. When this husband recovered, his wife, he kept her a prisoner in her home, and I was also the means of reconciling the couple. A Christian Scientist has told me that with tears of gratitude the wife of this husband related these facts to her just as I have stated them. I lived with Dr. Patterson peacefully, and he was kind to me up to the time of the divorce.

The following affidavit by R. D. Rousevel of Littleton, N. H., proprietor of the White Mountain House, Fabians, N. H., the original of which is in my possession, is of interest in this connection:

About the year 1874, Dr. Patterson, a dentist, boarded with me in Littleton, New Hampshire. During his stay, at different times I had conversation with him about his wife, from whom he was separated. He spoke of her being a pure and Christian woman, and the cause of the separation being wholly on his part, that if he had done as he ought he might have had as pleasant and happy home as one could wish for.

At that time I had no knowledge of who his wife was. Later on I learned that Mary Baker G. Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, was the above mentioned woman.

(Signed) R. D. Rousevel, Graton, S. S. January 15th, 1902. Then personally appeared R. D. Rousevel and made oath that the within statement by him signed is true.

Before me, H. M. WOOD, Justice of the Peace.

I was obliged to be parted from my son, because after my father's second marriage my little boy was not well, come in my father's house.

Who or what is the McClure "history" so-called presenting? Is it myself, the veritable Mrs. Eddy, whom the New York World declared dying of cancer, or is it her alleged double or dummy heretofore described?

If indeed it be I, allow me to thank the enterprising historians for the testimony they have thereby given of the divine power of Christian Science, which they admit has snatched me from the cradle and the grave, and made me the beloved Leader of millions of the good men and women in our own and in other countries, and all this because, the truth have promulgated has separated the tares from the wheat, uniting in one body those who love Truth, because Truth divides between sect and Science, and sends the heavenward impulse; because I still hear the harvest song of the Redeemer awakening the nations causing man to love his enemies; because "Blessed are ye when men shall revile you and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake."

My first husband, Major George W. Glover, resided in Charleston, South Carolina. While on a business trip to Wilmington, North Carolina, he was suddenly seized with yellow fever and died in about nine days. I was with him on this trip. He took with him the usual amount of money he would need on such an excursion. At his decease, I was surrounded by friends, and their provisions in my behalf were most tender. The Governor of the State, and his staff, with a long procession, followed the remains of my beloved one to the cemetery.

The Free-masons selected my escort, who took me to my father's home in Tilton, N. H. My salary for writing gave me ample support. I did open an infant school, but it was for the purpose of starting that educational system in New Hampshire. The rhyme attributed to me by McClure's Magazine is not mine, but is, I understand, a paraphrase of a silly song of years ago. Correctly quoted, it is as follows, so I have been told:

Go to June Glover,
Tell her I love her;
By the light of the moon
I will go to her.

The various stories told by McClure's Magazine about my father spreading the road in front of his house with tan-bark and straw, and about persons being hired to work me, I am ignorant of. Nor do I remember any such stuff as Dr. Patterson driving into Franklin, N. H., with a coach or cradle for me in his wagon. I only know that my father and mother did everything they could think of to help me when I was ill.

I was never "given to long and lonely wanderings, especially at night," as stated by McClure's Magazine. I was always accompanied by some evening individual, when I took an evening walk, but seldom took one. I have always consistently declared that I was not a medium for spirits. I never was especially interested in the Shakers, never "dabbled in mesmerism," never was "an amateur clairvoyant," nor did "the superstitious country folk frequently seek my advice." I never went into a trance to describe scenes far away, as McClure's Magazine says.

My oldest sister dearly loved me but I wounded her pride when I adopted Christian Science, and to a Baker that was a sorry offense.

McClure's Magazine calls Daniel Patterson, my second husband, "an itinerant dentist." It says that after my marriage we "lived for a short time at Tilton, then moved to Franklin, N. H." * * * During the following nine years the Pattersons led a roving existence. The doctor practiced in several towns, from Tilton to North Groton and Rumney.

When I was married to him, Dr. Daniel Patterson was located in Franklin, N. H. He had the degree D. D. S., was a popular man, and considered a rarely skillful dentist. He bought a place in Rumney, which he fancied, for a summer resort. At that time he owned a house in Franklin, N. H.

Although, as McClure's Magazine claims, the court record may state that my divorce from Dr. Patterson was granted on the ground of desertion, the cause nevertheless was adultery. Individuals are here to-day who were present in court when the decision was given by the judge and who know the following facts. After the evidence had been submitted that a husband was about to have Dr. Patterson arrested for eloping with his wife, the court instructed the clerk to record the divorce in my favor.

ENCAMPMENTS OF MILITIA SAVED

HOUSE REFUSES TO STRIKE OUT APPROPRIATION.

DEBATE IS VERY LIVELY

Grosvenor Tells of Foolish Maneuvers and Serious Trouble in Ohio—Heppburn Prefers Target Practice.

Washington, Jan. 10.—By a vote of 27 to 50 the house in committee of the whole Wednesday, having the army appropriation bill under consideration, refused to strike out an item of $1,000,000 for the purpose of paying the expenses of regiments, battalions, squadrons and batteries of the organized militia to participate in such brigade or division encampments as may be established for the field instruction of the troops of the regular army.

Mr. Hay, of Virginia, insisted that the maneuvers did not amount to much and said that so far as the maneuvers held in Virginia were concerned, they were a farce. He contended that the encampment was of little good to the national guard and expressed the opinion that they should not be held oftener than once every two years.

Mr. Young, of Michigan, thought it was the utmost folly to try to have an organized militia and not give them the very best possible opportunity to learn the art of war.

"We ought to avoid the garrison dry rot which has destroyed so many armies," suggested Mr. Parker, of New Jersey, who favored the appropriation.

Grosvenor Tells Incidents.

At this point of the debate, which took on a wide range, going into the question of claims growing out of damages done to farms, etc., during encampments, Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, enlivened the house by relating the story of the encampment held last summer near his home in Athens, O. He said that after getting the regulars and militia into camp, they had two or three days' maneuvers and then a sham battle. He said he had served four years and upward in the army at a time of active war and that with a single exception he had never seen any regiment, brigade, division, battery or squadron maneuver either in camp or in battle upon any of the magnificent plains and detail they undertook to perform in his home.

"I do not know," he said, "what other people's experience on the town where I live was, but I know that we never want to see any regular conglomerate performance such as that was come near us again." He then told what happened at the encampment. He said there was always an irritation and conflict between farmers' sons and merchants' clerks and men of the regular army. Some trouble happened in Athens and a soldier of the regular battery was arrested for being drunk and disorderly. A friend located him in jail. That night 50 to 75 members of the battery to which the prisoner belonged slipped out of camp, organized themselves into a small force, marched up to town and into the jail and as they were about to attack a guard of infantry commanded by a young officer, a corporal or a sergeant of the state guard ordered them to halt. Fifty or 60 shots were fired and he fell dead in the street.

Waste, Says Heppburn.

Mr. Heppburn, of Iowa, thought the million appropriation was an absolute waste of money. He was in favor of greater efficiency in target practice.

Before adjournment 31 of the 45 pages of the bill were completed. A point of order was made against the paragraph in the bill abolishing the grade of lieutenant general with the retirement of the present lieutenant general, Arthur McArthur, which point was sustained.

After a general discussion, a tentative understanding was reached in the senate Wednesday justifying the expectation that a vote on the general service pension bill will be taken next Friday. The measure was debated at some length during the early part of the session and received no vital criticism, but many commendations. Senator McCumber spoke at length in support of the measure.

The remainder of the day was devoted to a discussion of the bill limiting the hours of railway employees, which measure is to be voted on under agreement Thursday.

The Brownsville matter was postponed at the suggestion of Senator Foraker, who gave as the reason that Senator Tillman, who is indisposed, desired to address the senate on the subject.

To Kill Betting on Races.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 10.—Senator Lon Foust of Hamilton county, Wednesday introduced in the state senate a bill to prohibit gambling on horse races in Tennessee. The measure makes it a felony for owners of race tracks to permit betting on a horse race, whether the wager is made within or without the enclosure where the race is run. The penalty is a fine of $250 to $500 and imprisonment of one to three years.

C. B. Macdonald's National Golf Course

Finest Links In America to Be Built on Long Island, New York.

After golf for ten years or more over all sorts of courses, some of which have reached a high standard of excellence, the country now is promised the best links in the world.

Superlatives in regard to golf courses are so frequent that one turns with curiosity to the authority for the statement that this new links will be the "best in the world."

The authority is excellent. It is the voice of Charles B. Macdonald, an expert in all things pertaining to golf and once amateur champion of the United States.

When Macdonald returned from abroad a few months ago after a trip planned to refresh his memory of golf courses and golf holes, he brought with him maps and ideas for an ideal course.

These ideas will be put into effect on a magnificent golf course to be built on Long Island, New York, near the Shinnecock hills and touching Peconic bay.

The links will, it is said, be known as the "national golf course."

Mr. Macdonald and some wealthy friends secured 200 acres at Shinnecock, announcing the price as $40,000. Sixty subscriptions of $1,000 had been promised. These subscribers will be the founders and the charter members. There will be an associate membership of 500 men, with an initiation fee of $100 to $200 and annual dues of $30 to $40.

The committee to lay out the course will be C. B. Macdonald, Walter J. Travis, Devereaux Emmet, and Herbert J. Whigham. These men are capable of doing a great work for golf. All have made a thorough study of the architecture of golf links and will not need professional advice.

Such a course, "the best in the world," will have its influence on the game throughout the country. Macdonald and Whigham are responsible largely for the high standard of the best links round Chicago and Travis and Emmet for Garden City, New York. All of them are familiar with the links now rated the best in the world. They have behind them an experience equalled by few men to undertake the work.

MORE FOOTBALL CHANGES.

Experts to Send Suggestions to Rules Committee.

At a recent meeting in Philadelphia of noted football authorities it was decided to make the following suggestions to the rules committee as to changes in the rules for 1907.

The substitution of a fifteen yard penalty for the loss of the ball when a forward pass hits the ground.

The abolition of the five yard rule from center in the forward pass.

The allowing of two forward passes in one scrimmage if the first does not cross the line of scrimmage.

No increase in the number of downs in which to make ten yards.

The exchanging of positions between the linemen and backs, provided that such a shift does not produce missed plays.

The abolition of the rule prohibiting tackling below the knees.

The keeping of the five men on the side line back three yards from the gridiron.

The increase of the time of play to thirty-five minute halves and the taking out of time for distance penalties.

The discarding of the second umpire.

The giving of the control of the progress and condition of the ball to the referee and the directing of the umpire to look after the players alone.

Intercollegiate Bowling.

With six colleges now in the league, the intercollegiate bowling championship series has opened. The team winning the greatest number of games in the competition, in which each plays the other three at their home alleys, will get the new trophy, which is to be given jointly by the colleges. Columbia won the trophy last season, the first year that the colleges had their tournament. Columbia, Pennsylvania, Lafayette and Harvard, the original starters of intercollegiate bowling, were this year joined by Princeton and Johns Hopkins.

REVEAL ONE RULE OVER ALL LINES.

FACTS DRAWN FROM STUBBS SUIT GOVERNMENT LAWYER.

HARRIMAN MAN QUIZZED

Endeavors to Maintain That Union Pacific and Southern Pacific Are Bona Fide Competitors Still.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Determined efforts were made by the attorneys representing the government before the interstate commerce commission Wednesday to show that the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific ownership by E. H. Harriman comprised a combination which restricted competition.

J. C. Stubbs, operating director of the Harriman system of railroad and steamship lines, was on the witness stand for hours in Judge Kohlsaat's courtroom in the federal building under the closest questioning by Attorney F. B. Kellogg.

According to the opinion expressed by Mr. Kellogg just after the adjournment for luncheon at one o'clock the government had made out a clear case.

"The evidence of Mr. Stubbs shows conclusively," he said, "that there is no competition between the two systems, that both are controlled by the same sets of officials, that rates are the same, and the general agencies in this part of the country have been consolidated."

Mr. Stubbs, however, maintained that the control of the Union Pacific by the Southern Pacific did not affect competition between the two systems.

Takes Up Question of Pooling.

The facts concerning the existence of a pool of all the transcontinental railroads in the early days were gone into by Attorney Kellogg.

"There were such pools at times," said Mr. Stubbs, "but I cannot tell now what proportion of the traffic was given to the Southern Pacific or Union Pacific."

The uniting of the Southern and Union Pacific systems in 1901 was made the subject of extended inquiry by Mr. Kellogg, who insisted on knowing the names and duties of many of the most prominent officials of both systems.

"Isn't Mr. Harriman president of all the various companies that make up the system?" the witness was asked.

Mr. Stubbs said he did not know but he believed that to be the fact.

When the Union and Southern systems passed into one control, Mr. Stubbs consolidated the agencies at St. Louis, St. Paul, St. Petersburg and Cincinnati. He testified, however, that in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and other eastern cities there were still separate agencies.

Influence on Chicago Freight.

The duties of General Agent W. G. Niemeyer of the Southern Union Pacific system were gone into as compared to his duties at the time he represented only the Southern Pacific in Chicago. Attorney Kellogg wanted to find out to what extent competition in the solicitation of freight traffic had been affected.

"There is just as much competition as ever," said Mr. Stubbs. "Niemeyer always worked the Union Pacific route in preference to the Sunset Route via New Orleans. His instructions were to that effect."

Is he competing with himself now?" asked Attorney Kellogg.

"Well, in a sense, yes. You must not forget that the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads are connecting lines, and should not be regarded as competing lines."

"Then why," insisted Mr. Kellogg, "do the two lines maintain separate offices in New York for the purpose of competition?"

Mr. Stubbs, after reflecting a moment, replied:

"It may be that you are juggling with words. I should be more careful in my answers."

CARLISLE SCHOOL IN PERIL.

Senate Subcommittee Thinks It Should Be Abolished.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Carlisle institute, which was established at Carlisle, Pa., in 1879 for the higher education of the Indians, is in danger of being abolished. The subcommittee of the senate committee on Indian affairs, which has the Indian appropriation bill under consideration, has agreed to report an amendment striking out the appropriation for this school. The reason advanced by the members of the committee is that a school so far away from Indian reservations is not so effective as the western educational institutions for the Indians.

New Orleans Item Changes Hands.

New Orleans, Jan. 10.—The control of the New Orleans Item, an afternoon daily for the past 30 years, Wednesday passed to the hands of J. M. Thompson, former publisher of the Norfolk Va. Dispatch. Mr. Thompson, who has been elected president and treasurer of the company, will publish the Item, and Marshall Ballard will be associated with him in the editorship of it.
